Recognizing Your Achievements and Rewarding Your Safety

VISTA

Global Aerospace believes that operators who commit the extra effort and resources toward excellence in aviation safety should also benefit financially to the degree that their investment has a positive impact on our overall loss experience. In 1983, we launched the VISTA program in the United States, which set qualifying metrics based on operators exceeding the industry standards and our commitment to reward our customers for their investment in safety. This program is still running strong today and has returned in excess of $50 million in policyholder dividends to our customers.

Learn more about how to qualify for VISTA benefits by contacting your local Global Aerospace representative.

VISTA ELITE

In 2009, we recognized that the industry standards were increasing and our customers were exceeding these standards with ISBAO certification leading the way. In an effort to reward these achievements and recognize those flight departments we created the VISTA ELITE program in the United States. The VISTA ELITE program builds on the success of the long established VISTA program and rewards our customers for their increased investment in safety. This elite group of operators benefit from an increased group policyholder dividend component. More importantly, they can enhance their safety initiatives by selecting each year from a wide range of customized safety products, including on-site training, from our SM4 Partners.
